CHAPTER V

At the change of the streets the dining room of the Sinclair was a welcome haven of peace and quiet. The linen and silver glistening in the mellow light from the score of shaded lamps were restful to his weary eyes. From a hidden orchestra the strains of a Strauss waltz rose gently above the buzz of conversation from the gay after-theatre parties who thronged the place.

Almost every other man was in evening clothes, but Sinclair was too tired and puzzled to care that he wore only a business suit. He had a tired, hazy, dazed expression, but he sat there, hardly daring to question his host, until the waiter's attention would relieve his mind by some sort of explanation of her recent disappearance.

estimated a nature that she shared not only anything to him for fear of his disapproval. She was not sure that she could inference he could draw from the way she looked at him. for It All.

As usual when she spoke or looked at him so earnestly his admiration for her beauty and magnetic mental power rose superior to his doubts of her character. His admiration was mingled with sorrow that she should be a lawbreaker and with a feeling like a hunted animal from the police and a rival gang of criminals and compelled to throw herself on the mercy of any utter stranger. And yet but for his well-considered opinion that the woman was not calling he would have been proud to welcome this woman into the aristocratic home.

"Madame, I have little to say, except that I shall be glad to see you," he replied.

"He will have something better than the volunteered no reason for having forced him into a quest so apparently useless."

But he tried to suppress his feelings and continued as affably as he could: "And I am greatly relieved to find that no harm has befallen you."

"Mr. Sinclair, I am more indebted to you than I can tell, and I fully appreciate your strange new train—all this chasing about is really to me a most interesting reason for it all. I cannot explain it now and you must take my word of honor as I have taken yours, that it is a good

"Some day you will know all and when you do, unless I read your face wrong, you will be glad that you came to my aid. Under these conditions are you willing to continue to serve me or do you desire that I release you from your promise?" replied Sinclair, once more completely under the spell of this fascinating woman. "I am at your service so long as you require me, regardless of the conditions you may impose."

and ascent was made to-day by Count Zeppelin in his new airship, with a view to testing an improved new side-steering gear. The test lasted a little over two hours, during which time the most difficult manoeuvres were carried out without a hitch. The great airship first circled around the town of Friedrichshafen several times. It then departed at full speed towards Langen, and in half an hour was seen on the opposite of Lake Constance against a light breeze.

Proceeding back across the lake to Lindau, Count Zeppelin at the height of 1,000 feet to 2,000 feet above the surface of the water a series of manoeuvres, including sinking and rising, turning and stopping, thoroughly testing the new arrangement of both the ascent and the side-

TORTURES OF ECZEMA YIELDED TO CUTICURA

"Cuticura Remedies are all you claim them to be. I had eczema for over two years. I had two physicians, but they only gave me relief for a short time and I cannot enumerate the ointments and lotions I used to no purpose. My ankles were one mass of sores. The itching and burning were so intense that I could not sleep. I could not walk for nearly four months. One day my husband said I had better try the Cuticura Remedies. After using them three times, I had the best night's rest in months unless I took an opiate. I used one set of Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Resolvent Pills, and my ankles healed in a short time. It is now a year since I used Cuticura, and my ankles have become the envy of the women.

I had a small lump in the corner of my eye, and it was a terrible, very painful and got larger all the time. I thought I would try Cuticura Soap and Ointment on it, and it was cured. I am seventy-three years old and have used Cuticura Soap and Ointment for twenty-seven years. Cuticura Remedies are the safest and most reliable I have ever used.

WOMEN'S CLUBS OF CHINA GREET SISTERS IN HUB

Symphony Hall Packed with Delegates at First Business
Session of Federation.

1,690 REPORTED PRESENT

With every seat on the floor and in the balcony filled to overflowing, the first business meeting of the biennial convention of the Federation of Women's Clubs was held today in Symphony Hall at 10 o'clock.

Mrs. Sarah Platt Decker, the president, delayed the meeting, which was to have been called at 9:30 o'clock, a half hour, in order that the members could become acquainted with their places in the hall. Mrs. Decker introduced Mrs. Ferguson of Shanghai, China, who delivered an address of welcome from the Chinese club. Mrs. Ferguson spoke briefly and in a graceful way outlined the growing work of the various clubs in China. She said that the work there was restricted owing to the fact that they were merely a Chinese community in a foreign country and there was no Chinese woman's club in China.

Mrs. D. N. Cooper of Iowa, honorary president, then delivered an address of welcome to the Eastern hostesses. She charged upon the characteristics of the New England women in a most eloquent speech, during which she said that:

Praises Hostesses.
"We will not forget the day in your welcome to us, the beautiful things that New England has given us. The pioneer women here, with their traditions and memories, influence and inspiration, have made this our home. Today is our day of independence. While we appreciate all that we get from New England, today we stand upon our own feet."
Mrs. Charlotte E. Bell, chairman of the Committee on Resolutions, reported a total membership of 1,690, with 500 delegates. She said that the delegates came from 150 different cities, and that the number of delegates was 500, with 150 delegates and 150 alternate delegates.

Electioneering Begins.

Electioneering began before the doors of the convention hall were opened. It was a fight between the Eastern and Western delegates, and at the last moment, Mrs. Allen Ward, Boston's and the East's candidate for president, was elected. After Eastern delegates had been elected to a compromise by the activity of the delegates from the West, Mrs. Ward indicated her intention to be a candidate for the first vice-presidency.

Politics of the Convention.

As the situation now stands it appears that Mrs. Philip N. Moore, first vice-president, will be elected president without opposition. The San Francisco delegates are active in their endeavor to secure the convention to be held in San Francisco next year. They are also active in their endeavor to secure the convention to be held in San Francisco next year. WHOLE WORLD OF PROSECUTED TARTS EXPECT A ROAD RACE

NEW LONDON, June 24.—Interest in tomorrow's eagerly awaited duel between Yale and Harvard revived the greatest boom in the history of the annual contests on the water between the two leading universities of the country since it became known that President Roosevelt and Nonpareil William H. Taft would probably be on hand to witness the great race.

Their presence near the area of the contest, however, in this age of a couple of days in the water, is not a very important factor in the contest. It is the fact that the two universities are competing for the honor of the championship of the world in the water.

President Roosevelt, who is expected to be in the morning on the yacht, which will be the scene of the contest, is expected to be in the morning on the yacht, which will be the scene of the contest.

The advance guard of visitors for the annual regatta has already been landing and setting in lively at the Hotel Hamilton, located near the water. The Yale and Harvard men were put up with only a few days in the hotel. The Yale men were put up with only a few days in the hotel.

LEWIS SCORES OVER TEMPLE VICIOUS ROUT

Harry Lewis, the perfect Quaker weight, got the decision over Larry Temple at the Army A. A. but the white boy never had a tougher experience of played off a harder rival.

Incidentally at all times in the twelve rounds of battle, Temple kept Lewis tight, but Lewis was able to show his power and skill in the fight.

JOHN L. WELLS BE A GUEST

As an added attraction to the already unequalled array of talent, the committee in charge of the show at the St. Albans Athletic Association on Thursday evening have secured the presence of the great and old John L. Wells to appear. John L. Wells is a famous boxer and is expected to be in the city for a few days.

BY GEORGE! - IT'S NICE TO GET OUT HERE IN THE SUBURBS AND SEE A BIT OF GREEN GRASS!

HELLO, UNCLE ED. - GLAD TO SEE YOU!

IT MUST BE HARD IN THE CITY ALL THE TIME! - SPEAKING OF GREEN GRASS, - HOW'D YOU LIKE TO MOW THE LAWN FOR A LITTLE EXERCISE?

WHY - ER -

HERE YOU ARE, UNCLE, NOW SEE WHAT YOU CAN DO!

YOU'RE DOING FINE, UNCLE ED, - KEEP IT UP!

HM! -

IT MUST BE HARD IN THE CITY, UNCLE, WITH NOT A BIT OF GRASS TO CUT!

I'M SORRY THE LAWN WASN'T LARGER, BUT YOU CAN WEED THE GARDEN IF YOU LIKE.

NOW DON'T FORGET, UNCLE ED, - COME OUT AGAIN SOON!

HE HASN'T CHANGED A BIT! - HE GETS EVERYTHING FOR NOTHING!
